Health Equity Ambassador Program

Health Equity Ambassadors

Cancer disparities persist because access, information, and trust are not evenly distributed. The American Cancer Society's Health Equity Ambassador (HEA) Program empowers trusted local leaders to spark conversations, foster confidence, and help individuals take charge of their health through prevention and early detection.

The HEA Program integrates culturally-grounded knowledge, behavioral science, and community partnerships to:

- Increase knowledge around cancer prevention
- Advance prevention rooted in cultural knowledge, traditions, and lived experiences.
- Drive screening
- Boost clinical trial awareness
- Connect individuals to community health resources
- Culturally grounded prevention & early detection

Through collaborations with local organizations, Ambassadors reach people where they live, learn, work, and gather, turning trusted relationships into life-saving awareness.

Health Equity Ambassador Program

Health Equity Ambassador Program

The Health Equity Ambassador (HEA) program advances health equity by working through Community-Based Organizations (CBOs) to address the unequal burden of cancer in historically underserved populations.

How it works:

- ACS partners with Community-Based Organizations (CBOs) rooted in underserved areas to educate individuals about cancer screening, prevention, and clinical trials
- CBOs are trained to recruit, train, and support a local HEA network that mobilizes cancer education through existing meetings, events, and trusted settings.
- CBOs deliver culturally relevant cancer education that encourages early detection, prevention, and informed decision-making
- Health Equity Ambassadors engage individuals through trusted education and connections to local resources and next steps

Leading through trust

Health Equity Ambassadors gain knowledge and confidence to educate others and help change the trajectory of cancer outcomes where they live and work. Through training, ambassadors learn about cervical, breast, colorectal, and prostate cancers, the role of clinical trials, motivational interviewing, caregiving, and clear steps forward so they can share information with confidence.

Ambassadors apply this training by integrating education and outreach into existing community spaces and fostering trusted relationships with people they already know and serve.

By showing up consistently and tracking outreach, Ambassadors help ensure education reaches people early, builds awareness, and leads to informed next steps.

"Mahalo nui to the American Cancer Society for your kokua. Mahalo for making our journey a shared mission of hope for the future."

8 Action Item BOT #26-03: Approval of an OHA Board of Trustees’ Resolution Honoring the Lifetime Service, Cultural Leadership, and Legacy of Kumu Hula Robert Uluwehionāpuaikawēkiuokalani Cazimero

I. Proposed Action

The Office of Hawaiian Affairs, Board of Trustees approves a resolution honoring the lifetime service, cultural leadership, and legacy of Kumu Hula Robert Uluwehionāpuaikawēkiuokalani Cazimero.

II. Issue

Whether the Office of Hawaiian Affairs (“OHA”), Board of Trustees (“BOT”) should approve the attached resolution honoring the lifetime service, cultural leadership, and legacy of Kumu Hula Robert Uluwehionāpuaikawēkiuokalani Cazimero.

III. Discussion

This resolution honors the extraordinary lifetime service and cultural leadership of Kumu Hula Robert Uluwehionāpuaikawēkiuokalani Cazimero, whose work has profoundly shaped the perpetuation of Hawaiian arts and traditions. Since completing the sacred ‘ūniki rites in 1973 under the guidance of Kumu Maiki Aiu Lake, he has dedicated his life to preserving and transmitting ‘ike Hawai‘i through hula, chant, music, and language. Through decades of disciplined practice and teaching, he has upheld the responsibilities of a kumu hula while serving as a respected cultural bearer whose influence has strengthened the living traditions of Hawai‘i.

In 1975, Kumu Robert Cazimero founded Hālau Nā Kamalei o Līlīlehua, an all-male hula hālau that transformed perceptions of male hula and cultivated generations of dancers grounded in excellence, cultural integrity, and commitment to tradition. Under his leadership, the hālau achieved numerous first-place honors at the King Kamehameha Hula Competition and the Merrie Monarch Festival, setting historic standards for artistic excellence while honoring the legacy of King David Kalākaua. Through the sacred process of ‘ūniki, he has graduated multiple generations of dancers, chanters, and kumu hula, ensuring the faithful transmission of hula lineages and establishing a lasting legacy of mentorship and cultural stewardship.

Beyond the hālau, Kumu Robert Cazimero’s contributions as a musician, composer, and cultural innovator have shaped Hawaiian music and performance for more than five decades. As a founding member of The Sunday Manoa, one-half of The Brothers Cazimero, and a celebrated solo artist, he has composed over one hundred mele and earned numerous accolades, including twenty-five Nā Hōkū Hanohano Awards and induction into the Hawaiian Music Hall of Fame. Through iconic cultural events such as the May Day Concert and the May Day Revival Concert, as well as the work of the Wāhea Foundation and international educational efforts, he continues to share Hawaiian cultural knowledge across generations and across the world.

This resolution therefore recognizes Kumu Robert Cazimero for a lifetime devoted to nurturing practitioners, advancing Hawaiian cultural expression, and ensuring that the ‘ike of the kūpuna continues to live, grow, and flourish.
